EVENING TOGS TO BE GAY
WHEN THE WAR IS OVER

Black May Be Changed to Purple, Lavender and Blue—Dyes Will Then Be Plentiful.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 16.—Once the war is over evening clothes will no longer be the "conventional black." Gay colors will be worn, purple, lavender and blue, according to leading tailors here for the convention of the National Association of Merchant Tailors. And, once the "society birds" get started wearing evening clothes with more "dash," only one more step will be needed to get men started wearing knickerbockers, fancy shirts and elaborately colored hose, is also the belief.

The basis for the belief in gay colors coming is that dye will be plentiful when the war is over.

SUIT REVEALS THEFT OF BIG GEM, THE GIFT OF AUSTRIAN EMPRESS

Seven Karat Diamond Ring Presented to Count by Maria Theresa Stolen Here.

A suit filed to-day in the Supreme Court by the Count and Countess Rudolf Festetics de Tolna disclosed for the first time that a seven karat diamond ring, once the property of the Empress Maria Theresa, was stolen last October from the home of the Countess's father, the late Garner Wetherbee, millionaire hotel man.
The ring was presented to Count Ladislav Festetics, great-grandfather of Count Rudolf, by the Empress Maria for the service he performed in restoring the throne to her. When the Empress was threatened Hungarian noblemen came to her rescue under the leadership of Count Festetics.

The suit is directed against the Fidelity and Casualty Company which refused to pay a $5,000 burglary insurance policy on the precious heirloom.

In August, 1914, just after war had been declared, the Count and Countess were living in Paris. The Count decided to return to this country, but the French military authorities refused to believe he was an American citizen.

Through the American Ambassador in Paris the Count's certificate of naturalization was obtained. This brought about his release.

However, the Countess Lara Festetics de Tolna, the Count's mother, was still an Austrian citizen living in Paris. The ring was in her possession and liable to seizure by the French military officials. To insure the safety of the heirloom she gave it to her daughter-in-law, who brought it to this country.

On the evening of Oct. 3 last year the Count took the diamond in his chiffonier drawer. He looked for it the next evening, intending to wear it to a diplomatic affair in Washington. It was gone. The lock had been forced, but there was no evidence of the use of burglar tools.
The police were notified, and after several months' work, failed to find the thief. They reported that their suspicions rested on several persons who had called at the house on business. No arrests were made.

TAKES "SMOKES" WITH HIM.
Rich Recruit Afraid Monogrammed Kind May Run Out.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—When Hyman Burman, who claims to be the son of a wealthy New York importer, started for Jefferson Barracks, Mo., to-day as an army recruit, he carried with him a box of 2,000 cigarettes bearing his monogram.

"I'm afraid I'll be unable to get any of them in the army," said Burman, "and I want to be prepared."

each meal and at bedtime until the normal
